

Promoting a Healthy Environment

Celebrations

Fun and Healthy Celebrations

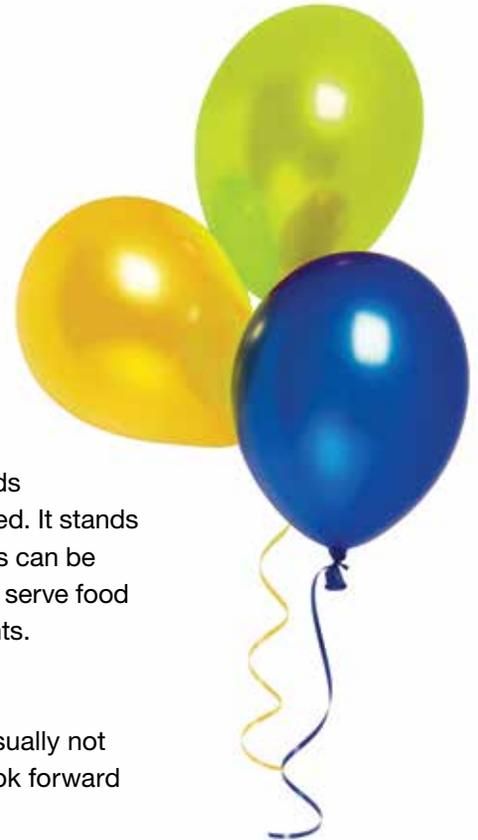

From birthday to holiday parties throughout the school year, children and teachers have numerous reasons to celebrate. Celebrations are a great way for children to feel part of the school community. When the learning environment is made festive, children, teachers and parents can come together to enjoy a break from the routine.

Traditionally, school celebrations center around food. Foods such as cupcakes, cookies, candy, chips and beverages are often the central components of the school party menu. While these foods, in moderation, can be part of a healthy, well-balanced diet, these unhealthy choices have almost become daily norms in the classrooms rather than exceptions.

The Anne Arundel County Public Schools' Wellness Council Team understands that children who are well-nourished are better learners and are better behaved. It stands to reason that school parties are an avenue through which healthy alternatives can be included in the fun. Schools can take advantage of classroom celebrations to serve food that tastes great, is nutritious and allows for nutrition education for the students.

Why Offer Healthy Alternatives at School Celebrations?

- Children love the idea of a party and a break from the routine. They are usually not concerned about the foods that are offered at school parties. Children look forward to sharing free time with teachers, parents and their friends.
- Healthy alternatives at school parties provide a consistent message which supports important lessons about health, instead of contradicting healthy messages.
- When school parties promote health, schools are helping to positively change eating behaviors of children and parents.
- Children are excited about new and different things, including healthy party activities (see reverse) and healthy party snacks.
- When school parties include fruits, vegetables, whole grain snacks, low-fat or fat-free milk, cheese, or yogurt — even if cupcakes are offered — children learn that party food can also be healthy.

The message is simple: Lifelong health choices begin now. Why not make school parties an opportunity for creating positive healthy habits?

Healthier School Celebrations: Teachers and Parents Working Together

The Anne Arundel County Public Schools' Wellness Council Team encourages teachers to serve as role models for healthy choices and to help children develop lifelong habits of eating well and being active. School parties provide an excellent opportunity for teachers and parents to work together toward these goals. Parents look forward to being with their children during the school day and usually are the ones planning school parties. Often, teachers must lead the way in helping parents understand the importance of healthy alternatives to traditional party treats.

Fun and Healthy Options at School Celebrations

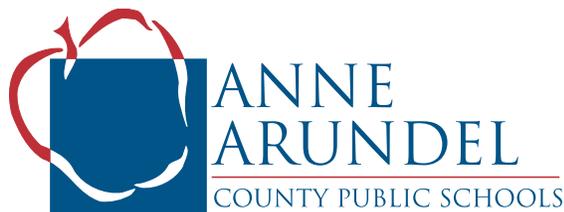

- For an upcoming party, send a list home asking for parents to sign up to bring 100% fruit juice boxes, veggie platters, fruit trays, whole grain pretzels or crackers along with cupcakes OR cookies. Such a list lets parents know you think nutritional balance is important even during celebrations.
- Parents can contact the cafeteria manager at the school to see what healthy food options they can provide.
- Let the children plan a healthy party menu and prepare the food for their party. Ideas like orange smoothies, trail mix with raisins, cereal and dried fruit, and fruit salad are easy no-cook party fare. Parents can bring supplies.

- Plan a thematic craft for the party. For example, painting pumpkins for Halloween, or Valentine mailboxes for holding cards children will receive. Parents can be asked to bring in supplies.
- Party games are always a hit. Having a Back-to-School scavenger hunt where children look for school supply items is a lot of fun! Children love to hunt for treasure.
- Take some time to go outside — kids will appreciate the extra free time and fresh air built into the party.
- For goody bags, have parents bring pencils, erasers, or small toys and stickers instead of candy.
- Have a parent come and read special books related to the celebration. Children love hearing stories from someone new!

Learn To Live

Anne Arundel County Department of Health
LearnToLiveHealthy.org
410-222-7979

ANNE
ARUNDEL
COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Adapted with permission from Action for Healthy Kids, Virginia. Reprint August 2016